

Movie Poll

How the rankings were determined

- ◆ Balance between 1st and 10th. A movie showing up anywhere on someone's top 10 list is a big deal. It's out of hundreds or thousands of movies they've seen in their lifetime. So I didn't use a simple "1 pt for #10 and 10 pts for #1" system. That would put too little weight on the movies lower down the list. I used a guideline that if a movie shows up on two lists at #10, that should have an edge over a movie which shows up on just one list, but at #1.
- ◆ Higher rankings matter. But I also believe that when it's close, higher ranking should have an advantage. Getting votes of #1 and #10, should have an edge over votes of #2 and #9, which, in turn, are better than #3 and #8, etc.
- ◆ Ranking formula. So, factoring in the above two guidelines, I came up with the following point system:

List Position	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Pts	100	91	83	76	70	65	61	58	56	55

Voting Details

- ◆ 32 club members cast votes (a few were for less than 10)
- ◆ 193 movies received at least one vote
- ◆ To crack the Top 20, most movies needed at least 3 votes. The only exception was Midnight Cowboy, which snuck in at #20 with two votes (a #1 and a #4).
- ◆ 28 movies received at least one 1st place vote. Only 2 movies received multiple #1s, Shawshank (4) and Casablanca (2).
- ◆ 19 movies received a #1 vote, but didn't get any other votes, so didn't crack the Top 20. Another 27 movies received a #2 or 3 vote but didn't get any other votes and weren't able to land in the Top 20.
- ◆ Over half the movies in the Top 20 didn't receive a #1 vote. Their multiple votes pro-elled them into the Top 20.

- ◆ The movie which ranked the highest without a #1 vote was Sound of Music at #4.
- ◆ Despite receiving 2 #1s out of its 5 total votes, Casablanca finished behind Top Gun, which also had 5 total votes but didn't have any #1s. Even though it didn't have any #1s, Top Gun garnered three #2 votes and its other two votes were #5s. So it had five Top 5s. Casablanca's other votes were a #4, 7 and 8.
- ◆ The top 2 movies were close, within one vote. If Godfather had received one more top 3 vote, it would have leapfrogged Shawshank. The gap between 2 and 3 was bigger. Even an extra #1 wouldn't have been enough to push Titanic past Godfather. It would have needed 2 extra votes, a 4 & 5 or better.
- ◆ Once you get past #3, the gap generally shrinks the lower down you go.
- ◆ Here are all the other movies which received votes but didn't make the Top 20 (in alphabetical order). Red signifies a movie which received a #1 vote.
